

COVID-19 UPDATE

Ally is so excited to give you all the news!!! According to the CDC the likelihood of an animal carrying Covid-19 on their fur, even if exposed to it directly, is very low. Therefore, we are again returning to allowing people who have been exposed or who have symptoms of the virus to allow someone else to drop their pet off at daycare and/or boarding. We will continue to follow all recommendations of the CDC for the health of our furry friends and their owners. We thank all of you so very much for your continued support during this time.

I am attaching a copy of the news report to this email blast for your perusal.
